The Rise & Resurgence of the Black Conservative Patriot

By CS Bennett

Well over a hundred years ago, a political party was born with the objective of ridding the country of slavery. That party was the Republican Party. It was a determined and defiant political force which was at the right place at the right time in our country's history. The party was formed in 1854, an offshoot of the former Whig Party. Its first presidential candidate was none other than Abraham Lincoln, which many in the Black community today believe was a democrat. This includes republicans Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, George Washington Carver, Harriet Tubman, Sarah Mapp Douglass, Sojourner Truth, and many more. No, they were not democrats. But it is understandable why others think this. We can thank a hijacked educational system and a worthless left-wing leaning media for these misconceptions within the minority community.

The Republican Party was a fresh new party that had strong leaders who led with conviction, a sense of moral purpose, and had a solid grasp of its own destiny. You see, they were the right group to form at the right time in history. They were fearless and true to their word, those that committed themselves to the liberation of an oppressed people called slaves. Unfortunately, many of our republican leaders have abandoned the sound foundation this grand ole party was built on. They have failed to tout God and Country, the conservative brand, and even worse, they have allowed those on the left to redefine our party. Save for a few loyal and devoted public servants, our other leaders never stood up for our values or fought back. In the simplest of terms, they never defended our side or ever went on the offensive in uncovering the horrendous and nefarious past and present history of the Democrat Party.

So, today, because of our own leaders' failure to promote who we are and what we stand for, we are perceived as the bad guys, the Bible reading, gun-toting bigots, and the racists of America's past and present they parody on the late shows. Black conservatives are treated even worse. They are treated with enormous hostility and are excoriated whenever they speak out in favor of freedom and liberty. Now, let me clarify this one thing, there are patriotic democrats out there, but their leadership is anything but patriotic. Their party's policies are nowhere close to being pro-American or pro-Capitalism. They are not even in the same ballpark. The taking of an unborn life is a matter of convenience for liberal minded women and men. Forcing people to inject a toxic and unknown and unproven substance in their bodies via government mandates is something these people have no problem with. Rights? What rights?

Then we have this other matter, the Republican Party's lack of enthusiasm in supporting and fully funding Black candidates. This cannot stand. What our leaders on our side fail to realize is that this party's future and destiny is dependent on the rise and acceptance of Black conservatives within the party. The leadership has got to give more than lip service to minority candidates. They must promote these candidates and they must fully fund these candidates. We have to return to being an all-inclusive tent like it was in the 1870s, a period in our past when Blacks became doctors and lawyers and politicians and other professionals during the period known as Reconstruction. And yes, it is true that nearly well over 88% of Blacks were republicans back then. Overtime, our party's leaders allowed the left to define us, and overtime, they won the propaganda war. Without a strong Republican Party presence in the South, in order for freed slaves to have a say in politics, they had little choice but to join the Democrat Party, which they were not welcomed in, and it was made known to them that they were not welcomed. Let us flash to today's Republican Party and the political landscape. Blacks vote democrat, 88% or more. It is the reverse of what it was during Reconstruction. Why? That will come in another article...

As for the republicans, there are 48 pictures of conservative speakers that are slated to headline this year's 2022 CPAC in Orlando, Florida, on the website. Yet only four of them are Black. We cannot move other minorities to join our party if we continue to be viewed and treated as minorities within our own party by our leadership. CPAC usually present the same familiar and well-known faces every three or four years. They need to bring in new faces, fresh new faces, and allow them to be heard, as well. Honestly, four Blacks out of forty-eight speakers headlining this grandiose event is dismal. There is a need for more Latinos, more Blacks, and more Asians to be featured. We have firebrands out there. Let's hear from them.

Fortunately for the party, with little credit going to our party's leadership, unsung Black conservatives are stepping up to the plate to promote the virtues of conservatism in spite of the verbal abuse they get from Black Nationalists, and others in the Black community. These new faces have chosen to stand up for liberty and for freedom. They are coming out in droves to run for office and many of them are more than qualified. Truth is they are highly qualified to take the reins and responsibilities of a public servant. Egos must never enter the mix. Humble service is what we need and what we expect from our leaders. Having said this, know that it will be the Black conservative, with the help of their white counterparts, and other nationalities within the party, who will awaken those still struggling in our minority communities. No, our leaders need not step aside but rather lead. And if they lead, as they should, the majority of us will follow them. If only they would stand up for the Constitution and our rights, we would back them

Black conservatives have always had a voice as members of the party; it is just that the leadership has usually turned a deaf ear to such voices. Yes, they will feature a few Black speakers here and there, at their major events, but to truly promote them, as they do the party's white members, is something they rarely do. There are no token Blacks in the party, however, they are often treated like token Blacks by the party's leadership. They meet with us, and they listen to us, but they really do not hear us, especially on how to persuade the Black community to return to the very political party that liberated their ancestors. This does not appear to be a priority with the leadership in their strategy sessions. They do not seem to understand that the key to destroying the Democrat Party is severing that party's ties to the Black community, and other minority communities. It's that clear a statement and that clear of a truth.

As a voice in the conservative movement and a defender of the United States Constitution, as well as our Bill of Rights, I count it a privilege to be in a position to repay our grand ole party for doing what it did to end slavery in this country, and what they attempted to do in ridding this country of the sins of that other party in the 1860s. I am sure my fellow men and women of color are just as committed as I am in preserving and defending this great republic, many of us veterans who served this country and were members of the greatest and most powerful military in modern history. To our leadership in Orlando this weekend, and as a guide for future events, do talk about the humanity, and moral compass, of our republican founders and the proud history of this grand ole party at its inception. Let it be known that the Republican Party started out on the right foot, with the right mindset, with the right goals, and was formed at the right time in our country's history. Insist that our leaders promote our brand and defend it with passion. It is no secret that our Establishment leaders seem to lack passion for what the grass root members of the party stand for. It is time for us to light a match under them.

In the meantime, know that there is a movement afoot and that is the return, influence, and prominence of the Conservative Black Patriot. Much like abolitionist and 1860s republican activist Frederick Douglass, we are here to fight on the front lines against tyranny and oppression. We are here to defeat the destroyers of our traditions and our Americanism. We are here to defend religious freedom. We are not only here to fight for the cause of liberty, but to lead the fight. Let us have this opportunity to say thank you to the Almighty Hebrew god, YAHWEH, and to the Republican Party of the 1860s, for standing toe to toe against the forces of evil. We do these things because of our love of country and our commitment to this great republic and our conviction and our duty in fighting evil. Let us have a true seat at the table, I say to our leadership. Do this and we will defeat the left. Include us as true equals and we will prevail as a nation. And let us not forget that other notable problem... namely RINOS.

Yes, republicans in name only. Aside from progressives and socialists, they are the next biggest threat to this country. Rest assure, we will set our sights on them and fight vigorously to rid the party of them, as well... Our children's future is at stake. They are counting on us to be courageous. More than anything, they want us to make a stand. Let us all be Spartans in this fierce battle to save our republic. We need dedicated warriors now. Diplomacy can come after we win the war of ideas and policies.

Are you willing to join in the battle? I am...

Some Musing On The Durham Investigation

Roderick T. Beaman

The Durham investigation has been prolonged, much to the chagrin of Trump supporters and derision of opponents. Everyone should realize that Durham has had to do a painstakingly thorough investigation, especially in tackling someone as prominent as Hillary Clinton. And the Watergate matter was child's play next to this. Watergate was a burglary to get information about the Democratic Party's plans for the election and little more. It was the sort of thing that has been done throughout election history, in the United States and elsewhere. It was seized upon by a media with contempt for a president who despised them, at least as much. It was unrivaled to that point.

National security was not at stake. This investigation involves possible capital treason. As I've thought about the case, I've been reminded of the scene in Godfather II, where Willie Cicci, Mafia hit man, played by Joe Spinell, testified before a Senate committee on organized crime. He admitted that he'd never received a direct order from Michael Corleone to carry out a murder. He said it was because there were a lot of 'buffers' in the Corleone family and laughed.

Throughout both Godfather I & II, crime family attorney, Tom Hagen, played by Robert Duvall, was always very cagey about saying or doing anything that could be used against him or the family. Any evaluation of Hillary Clinton and the Clinton family situation makes sense, and perhaps only makes sense, if you view the Clinton organization a la the Corleone family. Hillary was an attorney, did some criminal work and did a good job, as reprehensible as many clients likely were but then, that is the nature of criminal defense.

Anyone, especially an attorney, working in a criminal organization, would know the importance of couching one's language and having as many levels of buffers as possible between the head honcho & the ones who do the dirty work. In this case, many of these buffers are themselves attorneys and any investigation has to contend with claims of attorney-client privilege each of which could require a separate legal action, delaying things.

But the real fun will begin with the prosecutions. Will Pres. Joe Biden even permit them to proceed? He is the head of government and the Department of Justice serves at his pleasure.

If he does, each and every one of the indicted will have legal representation, some of very high quality and their jobs will be to get the best deals for their clients and that will dovetail with the prosecution's desire to get the person at the top. With the long list of Clinton associates who, in combination, have met their actuarially highly unlikely deaths, do not be surprised if there are 'suicides.'

Look for Bennie Thompson to release his January 6 committee's report, timed to distract from Dunham's report and any trials with the media falling into line, devoting hours and pages to it while devoting minutes and sentences to any Dunham proceedings.

Be assured, the media will fall into line with Hillary's defense team. As much as the media and Nixon despised each other, the relationship between Trump and the media has been light years worse. Some of the media and even several Democrats were friendly to Nixon. Rhode Island's Sen. John Pastore was a regular private dinner guest during the Nixon years. Other than for Fox and a very few other cable channels and some podcasters, the media and even some traitorous Republicans have nothing but contempt for Donald J. Trump.

Also, no matter how careful the investigations are, there will be multiple appeals by defendants & even perhaps, the prosecution. The media will ignore them unless there are not guilty verdicts or guilty verdicts set asides. And there is the question; will Biden issue pardons in the event of guilty verdicts? That's for starters .

Dartmouth Goes to a Car Show

Hasting Car Show setting for Grassroots Candidates

A car show was held in the unincorporated town of Hastings Florida on February 19, 2022. The main street of the village was shut down for the event and vendors and political candidates could apply space in the public right-of-way from which they could conduct their activities. The St. Augustine Tea Party chose to deploy its impressive 38 foot replica of the Dartmouth as a space for grassroots political candidates to congregate.

The Dartmouth has a long history of such activities going back to 2010 with candidates such as Rick Scott, Marco Rubio, Pam Bondi and others speaking from her decks. At the time they were perceived as Patriot Tea Party Candidates; history has proven otherwise. Communist candidates objected to the prominence that the Tea Party's Dartmouth afforded Patriot candidates and called the St. Johns County Sheriff's Department. However, they failed to shut down the Dartmouth's activities as she was moored safely on private property and completely legal. Funny how the Communists want to shut down law enforcement in one breath and then impose tyranny with their use of them in another breath. The candidates report a successful afternoon engaging the public at the Hastings Car Show.

DC Prepares for Biden's SOTU Address

TCCR Screen Shots

The People not Welcome

While Biden's aids prepare the State of the Union Address, Patriots, across the Country, bear witness to the fact that their Capital is in enemy hands. To give the appearance of tranquility the Capitol grounds are being sealed off from the American people.

On March 1, 2022 the State of the Union Address is scheduled to be given by America's fraudulent

President...Joe Biden. The address will be presented in the chamber of the United States House of Representatives. It will be addressed to the 117th United States Congress.

While those who claim power seal off the Capital Buildings, there are reports that Truckers, who are advancing on the city from across the nation, are planning the seal off the whole of Washington from the rest of the Country. The plan is to surround the Washington metropolitan area with semi-trucks by overloading the beltline interstate system. There are reports that the National Guard has been called in. This is the environment in which the State of the Union address will be delivered. The division between DC's "Deep State" and "We the People" is a rupture that really defines the true state of the union.

Nation Wide Support for the Truckers

Amidst reports of 'Trucker Convoys' being canceled or rerouted, patriots are demonstrating on overpasses across America. In Northeast Florida patriots are no exception.
