A Theory About the Internet

By John Knapp

Knapp Photo

I have a theory that some (if not all) of the big internet outfits are also data miners for the NSA. Government is inept at complicated things, so the government is paying private enterprises like Facebook, Amazon, Google, etc., to compile 'dossiers' on citizens, in case government ever 'needs' those personality profiles for any reason.

It's '1984' stuff, through and through. This would explain why 'Capitalists' like Zuckerberg, Bezos, and et. al. seems to be such flaming Socialists. If I'm right, the government is helping to make these Silicon Valley people rich beyond their wildest dreams. And it would explain quite a bit about their behavior.

I'm sure lots of people would say this theory of mine is straight out of Kookville, but George Orwell wouldn't. I've thought many times that government ends up knowing your every keystroke, your friends, your interests, your political leanings, your weaknesses and your strengths....that somewhere out there, someone knows more about you than you do yourself, or they have the capabilities to know if they so choose.

Why wouldn't this runaway government, in this age and time, take full advantage of that? What would stop them from doing it?

Just this morning, I watched a video sent by a friend, a video of Stephen Crowder asking Alexa, the internet answer girl, to define (one at a time) Socialism, Marxism, Communism, Antifa, #Blacklivesmatter, etc. Alexa's stock (computerized) answers were startlingly soft on all the different iterations of Leftism, basically unwilling to identify Leftism for the political derangement it really is. Alexa had harsher answers to any questions asked of her about the political right. Alexa is clearly a man-made, computer-generated, internet closet Socialist.

So, my theory would also explain why Alexa is a lefty: Alexa's bread is very likely being buttered with government butter.

But, that's not the worst of it. As fire is good, fire is bad. Make no mistake, Alexa is a growing brush fire in the minds of the willfully ignorant.

And, the internet remains the most amazing, yet most dangerous, environment there is.

St. Augustine Christmas Parade Surprise

The 62nd annual St. Augustine Christmas Parade made its way through the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida on December 2, 2017.

St. Augustine Record's Internet Photo

One of the most spectacular entries was the St. Augustine Tea Party's Dartmouth. The original Dartmouth was one of three ships from which tea was thrown into Boston Harbor on December 16, 1775. Later to be known as the Boston Tea Party. It's been four years since the St. Augustine Tea Party (SATP) acquired its replica Dartmouth. The Dartmouth has participated in the last four Christmas parades in St. Augustine. The St. Augustine Record, a local print media known for its radical Marxist bias, provides an online pictorial review of each entry in the parade. Often obscure entries are pictured. But The Record has always chosen to leave out one of the most substantial floats, year after year. For comparison, SAFD's hook and ladder number 47, which carried Santa Claus in this year's parade, is about the same size as the Dartmouth.

The Dartmouth has a proud history. During her eight years existence, She has been to Washington, DC and has had governors, senators and congressmen speak from her decks.

The Record continues to avoid publishing a picture of the Dartmouth, but this year has seen fit to

David Heimbold SATP Media Chairman, who was on board the Dartmouth commented,

"I was really surprised that they included a picture of our marching group. They were marching in front of the tow vehicle for the Dartmouth. They carried a banner to announce the Tea Party's parade entry. The massive and well decorated Dartmouth. I think it was an attempt to minimize the Tea Party presence, showing only five people and a small banner. Well, it sure backfired on them."

A Trump Rally is Everywhere USA...USA...USA...

At the sight of the Tea Party banner and the enlarged copy of the Declaration of Independence, the 3%er Flags, the Blue Lives Matter Flag and the Tea Party's beloved Gadsden Flags, the populist movement along the parade route exploded with, "USA, USA, USA". There was no resistance. The historic district was like a "Trump Rally".... Making America Great Again.

The Public Chooses Patriots

Striking Contrast between Nights of Lights Protesters

In the wake of the riots in Charlottesville, Virginia, a community organizer from Gainesville; Rev. Ronald Rawls applied intimidation, racism and hatred as a means to destroy St. Augustine's Confederate monuments.

Ron Rawls' intimidation at his organizational meeting on August 21, assured a fast-track to be included on the agenda of August 28, 2017 City Commissioners meeting. Mayor Nancy Shaver, Vice Mayor Todd Neville and City Manager John Regan were present at the AME Church meeting. If it had not been for a petition, which ran 10 to 1 in favor of retention, the "Social Justice" sentiment in the City Commission would have joined in the national Confederate statue hysteria. Over 11,000 petition signatures have now been obtained by one determined young lady, Jill Pacetti. The community organizer, Rawls, was defeated at the October 23 City Commissioners meeting. He then vowed to take his hate to the "Nights of Lights" light up celebration on November 18, 2017.

It is now clear that the "Social Justice" people at City Hall accommodated his efforts. On November 14, the Mayor made an appearance at the Tea Party's open meeting. She requested that the Tea Party stand down for the sake of public safety. The Mayor was informed that the Tea Party would not stand down and they would be present at the Confederate monument. The original Rawls marching plans from the church to the monument were altered. It appears that the Mayor provided a red carpet to the bandstand where live Christmas music was played. The St. Augustine Record was there to take pictures which appeared on the front page the next day. Mayor Shaver reported that 163 protesters were present with 100 being bused in from other cities. Videotape taken by the 3%ers militia revealed an exact count of 63 people. An interesting play on numbers. The majority of people protesting where made up with white people championing a variety of communist issues. One blackface among the demonstrators was that of James Evans Mohammed, a high-ranking official of the New Black Panther Party, with experience in the riots in Ferguson, Missouri. Given the potential for Black Lives Matter and Antifa, the "Social Justice Kings" at City Hall showed little interest in public safety.

The demonstrators were booed by the public. The dissatisfaction of the public with the protesters was so harsh that their activities terminated early. A spokesman for the 3%ers claimed that their militia numbers exceeded the protester numbers. Most of their people were in ordinary dress and blended in with the general public. Those that were not covert enjoyed the cheers of the public with their newly found Tea Party friends.

The Contrast between the Rawls' protesters and the "Parade Patriots" could not be clearer. Rawls had no support from the public for his radical communist agenda. His effort convinced no one. Even the Fake News coverage in the Record is no longer believed by the populist majority. He was booed off the stage, so to speak. The Parade Patriots had no need to convince anyone because they are already connected to the public. The Tea Party and the Three Percent were cheered on.

The 3%ers were present when they were needed in the Plaza on August 28 and they were present at the Nights of Lights on November 18.

“New faces are among the sea of faces that make up the populist movement which will save the country from the communist transformation. A transformation now being attempted. Our Tea Party is grateful that these patriots have our backs covered. They will play a big part in the defeat of the progressive style of communism,” Lance Thate, SATP Chairman stated.

Photos by TCCR Staff

A spokesman for the Jacksonville 3%ers defined their group as follows:

“We are part of a national organization who believes that the United States Constitution is the supreme law of the land. We strive to uphold our “Natural Rights”, as well as those protected by the Constitution. We are the last line of defense. We are the Three Percent.”

The Christmas Spirit was Alive and Well Aboard the Dartmouth

While the media rejects the presence of the Dartmouth, the public embrace the Christmas spirit radiating from the people on board. In spite of the political activity taking place on the ground at the head of the procession, on board the Dartmouth, the innocent voice of a young boy singing Christmas carols quickly restored the Christmas spirit and the American cultural values that the Tea Party represents. The boat was populated with people of all ages. They ranged from a World War II Marine veteran who served in the South Pacific to a two-year-old who simply enjoyed a beautiful day and the Christmas excitement.

The St. Augustine Tea Party Media Chairman, who was on board evaluated the situation as follows:

"I have been aboard the Dartmouth from the very beginning of the populist movement that started with the Tea Party. I was on board in 2010 when the Dartmouth's master was still Glenn Lord. Glenn was responsible for the construction of the Dartmouth. The original Dartmouth sunk about a year after the Boston Tea Party in heavy seas. The Tea Party's Dartmouth is sailing on troubled waters. I am inspired by the public who have never betrayed the Tea Party because we have not betrayed them. We are as popular today as we have ever been. We are part of the massive populace movement that is going to defeat the progressive form of communism. And today, a little boy's voice, singing Christmas carols, inspired both those on board and those that heard. We will fight for the goodness that resides in the boy. We fight for truth and liberty. The communists fight for enslavement. This Dartmouth will survive the heavy seas ahead."

as, "A date that would live in infamy" has been suppressed by the media.

On December 7, 1941, America's greatest threat was from foreign external sources. Foreign enemies were present throughout the world. With the attack on Pearl Harbor, Americans united in a great crusade to destroy the evil that threatened Liberty. It should be noted that the anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, has largely been ignored by the propaganda press. The date Roosevelt declared

Americans are once again standing for Liberty

On this December 7' 2017, the American people are in the crosshairs of an evil domestic attack. The Progressive movement is Communism, one step at a time. The Communist movement has infested government at all levels. The "Deep State", in both political parties, is complicit in the drift to Communism.

President Trump and the Tea Party's populist values offer the best hope for a new birth of Liberty.

American's Waking Up to the Assault on History

The progressive transformation to Communism can only take place in America if America's true history and culture are altered or eliminated. The assault on America's history has been long-standing and the pressure continuous. The Confederacy has been the focus of the left's attack. The Communists are particularly hostile to Confederate history because the fundamental nature of the founding States, after the Revolutionary War, was a Confederacy. Tenth Amendment Federalism is embedded in the idea of a Confederacy. Communists requires centralized authoritarian control to project their goals and power.

FB Image

The Confederate battle flag has been associated with racism and slavery because of the communist left's activities. This makes the assault on Confederate history easier. The Charlottesville, Virginia riots, which provided an excuse for criminal destruction of Confederate statues, produced hysteria for removing any symbol that could be associated with the Confederacy. Progressive governing bodies seized the opportunity to alter history.

Vast Majority of Americans want Confederate Monuments Retained

On November 18, 2017, the St. Augustine Tea Party's Town Criers conducted a St. George Street Poll. The poll is a face-to-face random selection with a national demographic. The poll revealed that 95% of the public did not want Confederate statues and monuments removed. Americans, North and South, East and West have awakened to the Communists' conspiracy.

In St. Augustine, Florida, a petition with over 11,000 signatures for retaining Confederate monuments saved the day. The City Commissioners voted to retain the monuments. However, the opposition continues to demonstrate, with the support of governmental officials. There are counter demonstrations. The fight goes on.

In Lakeland Florida, 6,000 emails, letters and phone calls did not save the monument in Munn Park. However, it is reassuring that the fight goes on to preserve the monument in Lakeland.

The St. Augustine Tea Party Chairman, Lance Thate reports, "It is our finding that the vast number of Americans have caught on to the conspiracy against their history. There is a struggle going on between 'We the People' and government at all levels. I believe that the people will preserve their heritage. We the people will prevail."

The Save Southern Heritage Florida group reports the following:

A VOTER REFERENDUM ON MUNN PARK WAR MEMORIAL

DUNN'S VICTORY AN UPSET: Coalition Declares Victory

Lakeland - Yesterday's landslide win for City Commissioner, Mike Dunn, should signal to all political hopefuls that debasing the Munn Park War Memorial would be political suicide at the ballot box.

"Michael Dunn's victory is proof positive that the folks in Lakeland want to keep the Munn Park Memorial," said David McCallister, Save Southern Heritage Florida (SSH FL) spokesman. "We view this as a public referendum on the issue. It should send a resounding message to those who hope to seek re-election in the future that there should be re-consideration of Monday's 4-3 surprise vote to take down the Munn Park v

Veterans' Memorial."

Dunn, himself a veteran who had previously run unsuccessfully for Commissioner, campaigned openly for keeping the historic Veterans Memorial in place.

Dunn will replace incumbent Commissioner Don Selvege, who led Monday's sneak attack on the Memorial.

The War Memorial became a key issue in the City Commission campaign, despite Commissioner Selvege's bulldoggish surprise move Monday that resulted in the vote that left Commissioner Yates feeling "sandbagged".

Despite over 6,000 letters, emails and phone calls, just slightly less than the number of voters in Tuesday's election, the Commission ignored the will of the people, after threats and intimidation from anti-veteran memorial groups.

"We were worried about this happening, so our coalition members took a key interest in the campaign. Save Southern Heritage conducted an extensive voter education campaign," said McCallister.

Save Their Honor Political Committee conducted its own campaign on behalf of Dunn with the Munn Park Memorial as the call to action in the election. Local citizen activists seeking to "Save the Statue ("STS") worked vigorously to spread the word that Dunn was pro-Veterans Memorial.

"We believe the coalition, STS, SSH FL and Save Their Honor, and the rest 'moved the needle' Tuesday."

Two other recent elections were wins for pro-Veterans Memorial candidates. Lakeland's Commissioner Malless lost his re-election bid last month, and Lawrence McClure won the Republican primary in a special election for Florida House District 58 on a pro-Memorial platform.

"We will be announcing a new campaign soon to expand on Dunn's victory and Malless' removal made possible by the voters in Lakeland," McCallister said. "Selvege's legacy to Lakeland is discord and division; we believe the new Commissioner won't let that stand".

"Our poll showed that most Lakelanders feel it is blasphemous to even be discussing removing a memorial to dead veterans," said McCallister. "We expect the new Commission to put the process in hard reverse when they take office in January," McCallister concluded.

SAVE SOUTHERN HERITAGE, Inc. is a not for profit education and advocacy organization for Southern Heritage & History. It was started in 2015 in response to the knee-jerk Anti-Southern institutionalized bullying and "Erase-ism" levied against the people of South Carolina by Governor Nikki Haley, after she broke all previous agreements about how South Carolina's historical veterans and their symbols should be treated and respected.

SSH FL does not condone racism and as such, we do not support any group or person that does. We respect the rights and privileges of all as bestowed on them by their creator and expect those in our association to respect and treat others as they themselves would wish to be treated.

The Florida branch was activated in mid-January 2016, in response to three initiatives in the Florida Legislature that are part of a hate campaign led by Anti-American extremists, who refuse to respect the various cultures that make up the fabric of Florida's society. Since that time, it has grown in membership and has been active in Heritage battles throughout Florida, including the "We'll Remember in November Campaign" that resulted in #heritagehater candidates losing elections in Florida. For All the Heirs

By John Knapp

How would you like to play poker with a bunch of players who reserve the 'right' to change the rules of poker as the game goes along? What if the card-players were professional politicians, the 'game' was your government, and the rules were the Constitution? And the chips? The chips were your liberty, your livelihood, your security, peace, and your children's futures?

That's the game reasonable Americans have been tolerating for far too long.

Didn't the spirit of the Declaration of Independence speak exactly to this 'game', this recurring human problem, forever and always, for any peoples who find them living under such conditions, but who would rather be free of it? The Constitution was written to hold fast above the fray of common political thuggery, to affirm and protect the Natural, God-given rights of free men from despots and governments run-amok.

Fast forward from revolutionary days to America, 2017.

The steady incrementalism of liberal-think has this government run firmly amok. It's gridlock, by any other name. The 'players' seem to prefer the 'game' to be mired in the muck. They do live oh-so-well there, mired in their muck. But, government-from-the-muck is a prohibitively-expensive proposition for the rest of us. Countries often die from it.

The fix can only begin this way: the People just have to decide when enough is enough, and then have the courage of their convictions. Had enough yet....already?

FB Image

The Founders had to come to three conclusions before they decided to fight King George:

- 1) I'm not living like this,
- 2) I will not fear the King,
- 3) Some things are more important than me and all my stuff.

Simple, reality. And timeless. But then comes the hard part. We the People are now on the same doorstep we were in 1775. Tyrants do not leave quietly in a taxicab when you call them out for what they are. They dig in their heels and double down.

We have the government we have, in spite of our Constitution, compliments of the ruling elite and the 'deep state'. To my knowledge, there is no Constitutional provision for either a ruling elite or a 'deep state'. Neither of those two groups' interests parallel or underpin the People's interests, or the honorable intents of Republican governance.

The Constitution has become irrelevant to the ruling elite and the 'deep state', which are engaged in political mutualism, to each other's continued benefit....above all else. This government has become an exercise in political vulgarity, bereft of decency, honesty, and honorable judgment, unfit for the job of governing the Republic willed to them by their predecessors. Is this vulgarity what the Founders, and what our fathers and grandfathers, fought and died to protect, in order to bequeath to us? I can't imagine.

If enough of us cannot firmly resolve to fix this, then We the People are equally unfit as heirs to The American Exceptionalism....as is our vulgar government....as are those vulgar politicians who presume to speak for and 'lead' us away from being the America we were supposed to be.

Once again, We the People find ourselves immersed in times that try men's souls.

Republicans Defeat Roy Moore

Classic GOP Dirty Tricks Displayed

While the globalist propagandist media debates the whys and the hows of a Democrat prevailing in the deep Republican State of Alabama, those in the Tea Party Movement fully understand as they have seen all of this before.

FB Image

There was a time when Conservatives believed that there was a place for them in the GOP. It has been decades since a conservative was permitted to exist within the Democratic Party. But in the Republican Party, a conservative was possible. As long as the conservative was defined as a globalist who believes in the right to life.

Conservatives who believe that the Constitution is the supreme law of the land and subscribe to a limited federal presence are not welcome. One only needs to look at the Tea Party movement's involvement with the GOP. The party leadership rejected their candidate selection at every opportunity. The Republicans were threatened by the Tea Party movement within their ranks. They were so threatened that they expelled them. A similar fate occurred with the Republican Liberty Caucus members and Libertarian ideas.

If a Tea Party candidate actually prevailed in the primary process on the Republican ticket, Republican "Dirty Tricks" were directed against their own candidate. Sharron Angle in Nevada and Christine O'Donnell in Delaware come to mind. Republican operatives function on a "Dirty Tricks" level. They do this in the name of party loyalty. Honor is only a word in the GOP. The party has forgotten that honor is achieved by doing honorable acts.

The expulsion of the Tea Party from Republican ranks did not really solve any problems for the GOP. The Tea Party movement expanded and evolved into what is now called the populist movement. It's the movement that elected Donald Trump. The Republican apparatus resisted Trump during his primary campaign. And continued to do so through the presidential election process with the "Never Trump" attacks. The GOP is still resisting. So it is not surprising that when the populist majority nominated Roy Moore, GOP operatives resorted to their "Dirty Tricks" again. The entire Republican apparatus turned on Roy Moore after they leaked the allegations 40 years removed. Lance Thate, a former Republican Executive Committee member and St. Augustine Tea Party Chairman, reported.

Tea Party Making New Alliances To Save Historic Monuments

While the “War between the States” is over, the war on Southern heritage is not. The guest speaker at the St. Augustine Tea Party’s open meeting on December 12, 2017, was the Executive Director of Saving Southern Heritage, Florida (SSHF). Lunelle McCallister travelled from the organization’s headquarters in Tampa to address Tea Party members and visitors here. [The Tea Party meets on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month at the Village Inn in St Augustine, FL Ed]

The attack on the Confederate statues and Veteran’s War Monuments started, in earnest after the riots in Charlottesville, Virginia this year. But the initial attack on Confederate symbols started with Republican Governor Nikki Haley’s removal of the Confederate “Battle Flag” from State Capital grounds in South Carolina in 2015. That is when the “Saving Southern Heritage” (SSH) organization was founded. The Florida chapter of SSH started about a year later.

Mrs. McCallister exposed the magnitude of Confederate monuments and statues that have been removed across the country. Those in attendance were shocked by the number of photographs that were presented. There were pictures of monuments, being removed at night so as to avoid public notice. There are also pictures of monuments that had been vandalized with either red or black paint. The red being the symbolic color of the Communists and the black the symbolic color of the Anarchists. Vandalism sets up a target for removal according to

FB Images

Mrs. McCallister. The SSHF has been involved in trying to save Confederate monuments in Lakeland, Tampa, Jacksonville and in St. Augustine, to name a few.

Tea Party Chairman, Lance Thate, pointed out in his report that the Progressive style of Communism is an incremental transformation to Communism from governmental officials and others top down. As opposed to Marx’s original concept of a violent worker’s revolution from the bottom up. Violent revolutions have occurred in the USSR, China, Cuba and elsewhere. In this country, Communists hide behind the name 'Progressive'. The City Commissioners have described themselves as Progressive. It's widely known that the Communist agenda is promoted by the Southern Poverty Law Center (SPLC). The City of St Augustine Commissioners have been known to distribute SPLC material. Mrs. McCallister reported that, the SPLC has called for the removal of 61 Confederate monuments in the State of Florida.

Rev. Ronald Rawls has been leading a band of radical Communists in the streets of St. Augustine using intimidation, racism and hate to attack St. Augustine's Veteran's Memorial. The Veteran's Memorial was placed in 1879 by the women of St Augustine. The women wanted their fathers, husbands, sons and other family members who did not return from the "War between The States", to be remembered. The names of the soldiers, both white and black, are inscribed on the monument. The Communists are not interested in monuments. They are interested in furthering their agenda of rewriting history.

It is now clear that the "Social Justice" people at City Hall accommodated Rawls' efforts. Mayor Nancy Shaver provided a red carpet to the bandstand where live Christmas music was being played. The St. Augustine Police Department provided an escort to the center of the "Nights of Lights" celebration.

It was the general consensus at the meeting that the "Social Justice" City Commissioners would have joined in the national Confederate statue hysteria and voted for removal; if it had not been for a petition, which ran 10 to 1 in favor of retaining the monuments. Over 11,000 petition signatures have now been obtained by one determined young lady, Jill Pacetti. The Pacetti family name is on the monument. Jill Pacetti attended Tuesday's Tea Party meeting.

The Tea Party's Town Criers have made several appearances at the monuments in St. Augustine. Their purpose was to promote a public awareness to the need of preserving our Southern and American history. On several occasions, they were joined by a militia group known as the "3 Percent". The group is so named because during the revolutionary war only 3% of the population actually engaged in hostilities on the battlefield. Chairman Thate reports that an alliance between the Three Percent group in Jacksonville and the Tea Party has been formed. "It's good to know that you have your back covered by patriots as enthusiastic as these people are," the Chairman said. There was a militia presence at Tuesday's meeting.

Lunelle McCallister made an impassioned plea for people to join together to save our Southern and American history. It appears that she was successful. A sizable number of Tea Party people chose to support her organization by becoming members. Everyone in the room understood that if we allow these Communist agitators to destroy our monuments and symbols, American Liberty will be permanently lost.

The public, since the riots in Charlottesville, has awakened to the need to preserve our heritage. But being aware is not enough, they will need to stand up and face the enemy. Public involvement in the City Halls across the nation, must take place. We so outnumber this Communist minority that, they are hardly worth recognizing. But we must because governmental units at all levels are working for a transformation to a Communist state.

It is ironic that to save American history, it is essential to save the Confederate history. The founding principles of our Constitution reside in the notion of a Confederacy. The concept of "Sovereign States" and "Federalism" which is imbedded in the 10th Amendment is the bedrock of our Constitutional principles. It is exactly the alienation of these principles that brought forth the struggle known as the “War between the States”. Long live the Confederacy, so that American history can survive, was the sentiment expressed in the room.

December 12th has, for the past eight years, been reserved for the annual Tea Party’s Christmas party. Tea Party members, realizing the importance of the monument issue, chose to forgo their formal dinner party to attend to tonight’s business. To start the celebration of Christmas, an informal Christmas party was conducted after the meeting. The Tea Party provided the Village Inn’s famous pie, free to all in attendance.

GOP Celebrates Alabama Loss

this extreme, perhaps, perverted man. Republican media outlets across the board were offering a sigh of relief. True to Republican form, they rushed to the call for 'concession'. "Where's the concession speech," they asked. Better to lose the seat to a radical Democrat, then to have yet another Conservative voice in the Senate. But, the concession speech didn't come.

Republicans are very good at celebrating Conservative losses. Republican media pundits were already showing signs of relief even before the polls closed. By air time the next day, the pundits on Fox News' show, "The Five", were declaring the GOP loss as a victory.

The party would be saved from the embarrassment of

Voter Fraud Suspected

There are reports that Democratic operatives made a last minute push. There were "Reddit" calls for Afro-Americans in Mississippi, Georgia and Tennessee to make a short trip to Alabama to vote. There are also YouTube videos taken at Doug Jones' victory parties where his supporters confirm the irregular voting.

Due to the closeness of the race and the fact that some military and provisional ballots are still uncounted, the digital ballot images should be preserved until the matter is settled. A Montgomery County Circuit Court wrote an order to preserve all digital ballot images in the hotly contested Senate race. The Alabama State Supreme Court stayed the order. Alabama can destroy digital voting records. One questions the haste in this matter.

Trump Claims He was Right Before He was Wrong

Republicans are eager to put this thing to rest. President Trump has congratulated Doug Jones and urges Roy Moore to concede. The President now claims he was right in supporting Luther Strange in the primary, and apparently wrong in supporting Roy Moore in the general election. The President appears to be in the situation where he's damned if he does, damned if he doesn't. It is frustrating, however to supporters, to see the President slip into the Republican camp and then into the camp that elected him.

"Mr. President, when you stand before the people at your rallies, for example, the one recently at Pensacola, Florida, you are not standing before Republicans. Those people, who greet you by the tens of thousands wherever you go, have little or no respect for the GOP. So when you endorsed Luther Strange, you were wrong and when you endorsed Roy Moore, you were right. Now, urging Moore's concession in the face of voter fraud, well....you're wrong again. The movement that started with the Tea Party has your back covered; the GOP is prepared to stab you in the back at every opportunity. The Republicans are globalists; they will not Make America Great Again", Lance Thate, St. Augustine Tea Party Chairman, concluded.

Make Hollywood Great Again

In the 1930s, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt permitted large numbers of Communists to immigrate to America. As Adolf Hitler tightened his grip on Europe, International Communists fled his concentration camps and National Socialism. There was no room in Europe for actors, directors and screenwriters who didn't subscribe to the Nazi propagandist film production. The seeds planted in the 30s and 40s have now taken full root. It is time to make Hollywood great again.

Progressive Communists Loose Again

Last year at the 2016 St. Augustine, Florida Christmas Parade, the local Tea Party noticed that "Happy Holidays" was on the wane.

This year they report that "Happy Holidays" vanished. In addition the people are forcing the propagandist media to return the cultural favorite, "Merry Christmas".

"If the sound of 'Merry Christmas' distresses Progressive Communists and their Snowflakes, let it be known that the Tea Party rejoices in their pain. For too many years, the assault on Christmas and Christianity itself has been painful to the vast majority in this Country. Christmas is a Christian holiday and the great populist majority will longer allow it to be diminished to suit the Communist agenda," a Tea Party spokesman said.

Fake News Exposed

Latest Home Town Example

As the old year draws to a close and the new year approaches, it is only natural that we reflect on the continuum of our past efforts and contemplate the new course for the coming year.

Photos by TCCR Staff

FB Image

So it is with this publication. Our first issue was only an attempt to convince interested parties that the Tea Party had survived the attempted Republican coup in 2011. Instantly, however, we were thrown into the “Occupy St. Augustine” demonstrations. We saw a need to provide an alternative to both local and national media coverage as a result. The term “Fake News” had not been coined back then; the phenomenon, however, was clearly present. No one was more despised, by the media, than the Tea Party movement that gave rise to the populist groundswell that elected Donald Trump as President.

As a result, the Tea Party movement has been under a continual barrage of dis-information by the media. This publication, The Town Crier Committee Report (TCCR) has extensive experience in disclosing the techniques and exposing the presence of media distortion. This is because of the TCCR’s extensive reporting on Tea Party activities. When you are the focus of their corrupt reporting, it is easy to discern their techniques.

Since the Charlottesville, Virginia riots in August 2017, two Veteran Memorials located in the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida have been under attack by elements of the radical left. The Veteran Memorials honor the Confederate war dead. The City Commissioners listened to arguments on both sides at two of their regular Commissioner’s meetings. There was a great deal of support among the “Social Justice Warriors”, on the Commission, for the removal of the Veteran Memorials. But in the face of overwhelming support for the retention of the monuments, the Commissioners voted 5 to 0 to save the monuments. For the Communist left, this was not acceptable.

True to form, the St. Augustine Record, a local newspaper, has promoted their ongoing activities. The principal feature was the “Nights of Lights” protest demonstration. They provided the Communist left with front page coverage, making their march through the streets the focal point of the “Nights of Lights” celebration. The reality of the situation was that the vast majority in attendance, perhaps as many as 8000, counting the overflow crowd in the streets, were totally unaware of the activities of 63 predominantly white activists bused in from Gainesville and Jacksonville. It doesn’t matter whether the “Fake News” occurs in the New York Times, the Washington Post or the St. Augustine Record. The methods to deceive and to promote the Progressive’s incremental Communist agenda are always the same. And now, the drum beat of the Progressive Communist agenda continues.

A recent example is an article entitled; St. Augustine's Confederate monument holds very different meanings for two local women by Sheldon Gardner. The article was published by the St. Augustine Record on December 24, 2017. <http://staugustine.com/news/local-news/2017-12-24/st-augustine-s-confederate-monument-holds-very-different-meanings-two>

In this human interest article, published on Christmas Eve, the story of two women representing differing perspectives is presented in what appears to be a fair and balanced manner. It would have been fair and balanced had Sheldon Gardner, or her Editors, not shamefully excluded relevant facts.

Jill Pacetti was described as a local woman who engaged in the monument controversy because her family name is inscribed on the monument and because of her belief that the preservation of history in a diverse historical city is essential. Jill Pacetti has contacted TCCR and confirmed that she believes the article is a fair representation as it pertains to her. The Record even reported the fact that Pacetti conducted a petition to gage the public's view regarding the monuments. They reported, "She opened a petition to keep the monument, which received thousands of signatures, and she presented it to the city." The Record has a long history of expanding the numbers for the radical left and understating the numbers for those that they do not support. The language "thousands of signatures" is an effort to understate the true number. As of December 24, 2017, the actual number of people signing the petition was 11,649. Pacetti's petition continues to attract signatures.

The Record's interview with Jamie Perkins goes like this; Perkins, working as an 18-year old bank teller, encounters a man who verbally abused her along racial lines. It turns out that he was wearing a Confederate lapel pin. As a result of this incident, Perkins has been uncomfortable going to the Plaza because of the Confederate monuments. The Record's interview with Jamie Perkins portrays a traumatized woman now nearing her mid-30s. She believes herself to be a victim of racism in St. Augustine and sees America as racist as well.

This human interest story of two impassioned women on opposite sides of the issue is designed to reopen the case for monument removal. In the spirit of Christmas and Christian charity, The Record hopes to motivate the people to the Communist cause. We say Communist cause, because this human interest farce wouldn't motivate a single soul in the great majority if the true identity of Jamie Perkins had been reported.

The St. Augustine Record has a history of quoting extreme radical leftists without identifying them. Jamie Perkins is a radical left wing political activist. She has been associated with the Women's March, Community Organizer Ron Rawls' Black Lives Matter people and as an organizer for Bernie Sander, who is a self professed Communist.

We find it interesting that The Record is so captivated by the Confederate lapel pin story that they have seen fit to publish the quote on at least two occasions. The most recent was on Christmas Eve. The media loses when a quote slips into a "talking points" quote. This is especially true if you're trying to win public sympathy.

On August 29, 2017, The Record quoted Perkins, almost verbatim, regarding her public comments at the City of St. Augustine Commission meeting on August 28. Her statements about slavery, racism and the Ku Klux Klan marching around St. Augustine lose standing when her statements are compared to Communist “talking points” used around the Country. The last time the KKK marched in St. Augustine, Jamie was in the process of being born.

Lunelle McCallister, the Executive Director of Save Southern Heritage, cautioned the members of the St. Augustine Tea Party, at their December 12th meeting, that the monument issue here is not over. Based on The Record’s attempt to reignite the conversation, it is clear McCallister was right in her assessment.

So as we look down the road leading to 2018 and contemplate the New Year’s course, this publication sees a renewed dedication to exposing “Political Correctness” and “Fake News”. The TCCR reminds its foes:

- We are in the business of engaging “Fake News”.
- Political Correctness has no place in our world.
- And remember, we enjoy offending people with the truth.

To our friends: We at the TCCR wish you a Happy New Year. Fasten your seatbelts 2018 will be a bumpy ride.
