Conversations in the Street:

University of North Carolina Chapel Hill

Dear Ms. Lunelle,

On the morning of August 21, 2018, don in the uniform of the Southern soldier, with the Southern Cross in hand, I would enter the grounds of the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill. The first to greet me would be a campus policeman of whom alongside several other policemen would watch over me for my entire stay on campus. I salute them!

FB Image HK Edgerton

As I made my way to the base of the Confederate Cenotaph where Silent Sam once stood, a middle age white man who identified himself as an instructor, would pull alongside me and ask of me; HK why are you here? Silent Sam is truly silent today. You may as well turn around and go home.

I told him "fat chance of that, because on this day, the base of Silent Sam will be a Meeting House (a place of worship), and I shall speak for all to hear of those brave babies he represents very loudly".

Those babies who sat in their class rooms studying when word reached them of Lincoln's army armed with General Order 200 issued by him to take the theater of war to the front door of the defenseless old men, women and children of the South. Sherman would, after leaving Lincoln, gather his men around and tell them that he had orders from the Commanding Chief to burn, rape, plunder, and murder at will and that there would never be an accounting for what they do. And they did!

These babies left their place of study to defend Southern home places from this immoral carnage. And I might add, there were others just like them in other schools across the South ...the Mississippi Grays of Ole Miss., the babies of the Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina...

And to have these thugs who descended upon the campus, taking the law into their hands and illegally Pull Silent Sam down; and to add insult to injury hurl false accusations that that it was somehow a "racist" Cenotaph leads me to believe that perhaps they forgot it was a Confederate soldier's cenotaph, that of an integrated military, unlike Lincoln's racist and segregated military.

One Yankee student would tell me and those gathered around, that he was "proud of" what Grant, Sheridan, and Sherman did in carrying out the total warfare orders, because it secured the North a win over the South and, furthermore, for me to "get off his campus".

I told him that this campus belonged to the citizens of the Great State of North Carolina, and that he and his Yankee friends who applauded his rhetoric were there because of those citizens. And, furthermore, that if they did not like or approve of my presence, then they could leave.

I was so very proud of a black professor, Omar King, I believe, was his name. He had a handle on the criminal act of the thugs who illegally pulled Silent Sam down, and their disgraceful actions afterwards.

It was a very intense day, and I shall always remember the respect I received from so many of my Southern family. And most importantly the decision by the Historic Commission, and the University Board of Governors, that Silent Sam must be put back in 90 days, and those responsible for the act be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

I hope to be presence at the restoration event ! God bless you !

Your brother,
HK

A One Party State

The Truth Revealed The Tea Party Legacy Censored

On September 2, 2018 Senator John McCain was laid to rest. He died on August 25, 2018. For eight days a tightly choreographed memorial was presented to the nation by the mainstream media. Key components reportedly approved of by the Senator, himself, before his death. The coverage was so extensive that there was little time for any other newsworthy events. FB Image

We will not judge the former naval aviator as to whether he was an American hero or not. We will leave that to those who served with him. And, we will not judge McCain on the merits of his leadership or question his ethics or his politics. That is now rightfully in the hands of God. Some of us were taught early in life not to speak poorly of the dead; we will not start here.

However, the “Washington Establishment” used this series of events to glorify themselves and that is a different matter altogether. The Establishment in an attempt to elevate themselves caused John McCain to lie in state at the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., a rare honor conferred on only 31 people in the last 166 years. This is surprising since McCain had a 42 percent approval rating while 46 percent of Arizonans disapprove of his job performance, just prior to his death, as reported by the Washington Examiner.

The Washington Establishment, along with their lapdog media allies used the Senator’s death as a political propaganda event. They were the same people who sat in Washington on January 20, 2017 aghast at swearing in of Donald J Trump as President of the United States. They are the “Washington Rulers”.

They were also all there at the McCain’s funeral service in Washington on September 1, 2018. The Clintons seated with Dick and Lynne Cheney, George W. Bush and his wife Laura seated with the Obama’s, Council on Foreign Relations member and their Guru Henry Kissinger, Jeff Sessions, Lindsay Graham, Joe Lieberman, Mitt Romney and his wife, Ann, Al Gore and Joe Biden all there to send a farewell to their colleague John McCain. Who they often referred to as “The Maverick” because he would be willing “To cross the aisle” to make a deal.

Let's Get to the Truth

In their hypocrisy, "The Establishment" rendered a great service this week to "We the People of the United States". John McCain never "Crossed the Aisle" because there is no political aisle to cross. The political parties are nothing but a device to keep "We the People", separated so that the establishment rulers can continue to rule.

In truth, there is only one party, the ruling party. The appearance of two parties is only diversionary tactic. It creates a blame game that divides the real rulers, "We the People", from each other. The Tea Party movement that started in 2009 was the beginning of the unraveling of the hypocritical establishment. The Constitution squarely places the ruling power in the hands of the people, not some establishment ruling class.

Those Absent, Tells the Story

FB Image

The Tea Party and those that inherited their movement were not present in this past week's events. Sarah Palin, John McCain's Vice Presidential pick in the 2008 presidential campaign was not invited. There are reports that she was expressly asked not to attend. Sarah Palin was the personification of the Tea Party movement. Her work led to the election of many of those who are now called the "freedom caucus". A group of men despised by the establishment. The Tea Party movement was denounced by the Bush family and Karl Rove was their spokesman.

Donald J. Trump, President of the United States, according to reports, was also expressly requested not to attend. President Trump is also despised by the establishment. And that rejection crosses party lines. President Trump often refers to his base as a movement. The President rarely, if ever, gives credit to the origin of that movement. Clearly, the Tea Party's legacy is the election of Donald Trump. Many of its members now reside in the "Trump Clubs" and participate in Trump political rallies across the country. The Town Criers, a committee of the St. Augustine Tea Party, report that they are the revered and respected by the public.

FB Image

With the election of Donald Trump, the American people are coming to realize that they are the political power envisioned in the Constitution. Not the political operatives of the Republican Party or Democrat Party. These two political parties serve the same master. And that is not the American people. That master is the "New World Order" and the Council on Foreign Relations is its spokesman. We are now a one-party nation and have been so for some time. The Tea Party movement and Donald Trump's leadership has disrupted the very foundations of our Washington rulers.

Within Megan McCain's tearful eulogy of her father was a suggestion that we do not have to "Make America Great Again" because it has always been great and is great. The elite of Washington burst out in extended applause. "We the People" are not of the same opinion. We see it as corrupt and foul and moving to an authoritarian one-party tyranny. We rejoice in the fact that Sarah Palin and Donald Trump, were not part of this. propagandist extravaganza.

in this transformation has surfaced. Time and time again, the interest of the American people's Liberty has been sacrificed in favor of the moneyed classes, the central banks and their vision of a "New World Order".

Coming Out of the Closet

The Dems have Come Out The GOP is still Hiding

Throughout the 20th century there was a consistent and steady transformation of America underway, from a capitalist system to a socialist system. This movement was spearheaded by a Progressive form of Communism. However, now the dirty little secret that the leadership of both political parties participated in this transformation has surfaced. Time and time again, the interest of the American people's Liberty has been sacrificed in favor of the moneyed classes, the central banks and their vision of a "New World Order".

As we moved into the 21st century, this process accelerated. Bill Clinton's pronouncements that "The Day of Big Government is Over" and the Bush's championing of "Compassionate Conservatism" is reflective of the stealth of the Progressive Communist movement. This was a time when they were both in the Communist closet, so to speak. A marriage took place while these factions of Progressive governance resided in the closet. The marriage took place with the blessings of their common master, the central banks, and the ceremony was officiated by the Council on Foreign Relations. The complicity of the two parties is forever exposed.

In the twilight of George W. Bush's Presidency, he tried to extend unlimited financial power to the Treasury Secretary. This was done with no oversight at all in the original "Troubled Asset Relief Program" (TARP). The precedence of TARP set up a spending spree that was designed to overwhelm the Capitalist system.

With the election of Barack Obama in 2008, the stage was set. Obama, the first full-blown Communist to occupy the White House, in his own words, called for the "Fundamental transformation of the United States". The complete transformation was to be accomplished following the 2012 Presidential election. That transformation did not take place because, out of nowhere, the Tea Party movement arose and destroyed Obama's ambitions by transferring control of the House of Representatives to the Republicans in 2010.

The entire Obama regime could have been held in check had the Republicans executed their Constitutional responsibilities. Obama's entire agenda violated the supreme law of the land. There is nothing in the Constitution that makes it compatible with the Marxist ideology. Accordingly, the Communists have set out to destroy our Republic in the name of democracy. The Republicans had the Constitutional power to deny funding. Instead, they were complicit in the forward march of the Progressive Communist agenda.

The Tea Party movement, so effective in 2010, ultimately resulted in a movement that got President Donald Trump elected in 2016. Donald Trump came out of nowhere, just like the Tea Party before him.

Trump's determination to resolve problems by putting America first, puts him at odds with the agenda of the Progressives. Their agenda is the destruction of America itself. Contrasting that with "Making America Great Again" is a real problem for elitists who have come to believe that it is their "divine right" to govern.

Even more dangerous to the establishment leaders, is the exposure of nearly three decades of corruption and the politicizing of governmental agencies against their opponents. The IRS's targeting of the Tea Party comes to mind.

FB Image

People at the highest level have been implicated in the corruption in the Justice Department and the FBI. The corruption may lead all the way to the Oval Office. With further investigation, time will tell.

In the unraveling of the elitists in Washington, the Democrats have come out of the closet and have exposed themselves as to their true nature. The Republicans are still hiding. In Progressive Communist mythology, exposing one's true identity is thought to occur near the end of their progressive revolution. Violence is now a real possibility. We see it in the streets in ever increasing amounts.

FB Image

Glen Beck has picked up on the term, "Postmodern." The modern era, being a period of enlightenment, reason and tolerance. The era in which America, its Constitution and its values has emerged. Postmodern is based on feelings and emotion. Political efforts based on emotion result in violence. The Progressive Communists in England have a symbol of a tortoise. Underneath the tortoise are the words, "When I strike. I strike hard",

Never Forget

Respond by Purging Sharia from America!

FB Image

Sharia is a civil jurisprudence for Muslims which claims to be supreme law. In America the supreme law of the land is the Constitution of the United States. The Muslim faith is a religion protected by the First Amendment. Sharia, which many Muslims observe, is a civil body of laws that violate our Constitutional rights on many levels. There is no compatibility; Sharia cannot legally exist in America.

A failure to reject Sharia is a failure to assimilate into the American culture. The very essence of being an American is the allegiance to the Constitution.

Immediate Danger

America at the Tipping Point

The depiction to the right shows America at the tipping point. Let's look at it as a physics problem. America is depicted as a map of the lower 48 states. The map touches the edge of a cliff at the tip of Texas. This point acts as a fulcrum because the map is tipped at about 45 degrees. The greatest mass of the map is already over the edge of the cliff. Resisting the inevitable plunge are four small silhouettes of men pulling on a rope attached at several points on the map. From an engineering point of view, the locations are not very effective. Let's name the four silhouettes just for the fun of it. Let's pick Nancy Pelosi, Mitch McConnell, Paul Ryan and Chuck Schumer. To solve the problem, which is the correct answer: Republican, Democrat or Trump? In this day and age everything is political, even physics.

Tea Party Welcomes Mayor with Emotionally Charged Discussion

On September 11, 2018, the 17th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, the St. Augustine Tea Party, conducted an open meeting with Mayor Nancy Shaver as featured speaker. Chairman, Lance Thate introduced the Mayor, congratulating her on her recent re-election and, in light of the emotionally charged items on the agenda for discussion, promised not to beat on any pails and or go into a chanting spree, making reference to the absurd demonstrations that have recently been occurring in the historic district by the Communist left. The Chairman expressed his respect for her willingness to attend the Tea Party meeting knowing the “Veteran’s Memorial” issue is emotionally charged.

Photos by TCCR Staff

The Mayor started her presentation by reflecting on 9/11 and her direct experience in Washington, DC. All remembered the unity that existed after the Islamic attack, a unity that was lost due to the bickering of our two political parties. But at the Tea Party the unity was revisited and remembered.

A respectful interchange followed. Her presentation was an exchange more like a question and answer session. At issue were the lawless behavior of Ron Rawls in the historic district of St. Augustine and the contextualization process as this relates to the attacks on the City’s Veteran’s Memorials.

The Tea Party meetings attract a diverse group of activists in addition to their own members. There were people in attendance who were advocating for the homeless, there were representatives of the Sons of the Confederacy, Michael Gold, editor of “The Historic City News”, the REC Chairman, Jerry Cameron and other familiar political activists of the community. The St. Augustine Tea Party has evolved into a forum for those interested in preserving our Constitutional Republic.

Nancy Shaver did an admirable job of defending the un-defendable. Her position was regarding the disruptive demonstrations in the historic district as merely expressions of the First Amendment. While there are ordinances on the books about disturbing the peace, Shaver claimed that they were not enforceable because they were written in 1964. On that basis the Constitution would not be valid. This notion was based on the opinion of the City Attorney Isabelle Lopez. The general consensus was that this is the Progressive thought process in action. The City attorney appears to be more attuned to Saul Alinsky than to the Constitution.

Alinsky's "Rules for Radicals" was written in 1971; Ron Rawls' tactics are described in Alinsky's book. So the old rules from 1964 don't apply. There were calls for Lopez' firing.

Tea Party activists brought up the Police Department's unfair treatment of demonstrators in the streets. The Mayor's defense of their behavior based on safety seemed lame to those who experienced it firsthand. What the Tea Party and other activists learned was that bullying works; law-abiding does not. The bully wins because safety is the major issue. Long-term, this is a failed policy. The Mayor pointed out that she is not in charge of the Police; John Regan, the City Manager is.

The Mayor who voted "No" for acceptance of the Contextualization Committee's report on July 9th, 2018, assured the audience that she did not agree with her colleagues. But according to the rules she cannot revisit the issue. Any of the other four commissioners could. Those in attendance were disappointed given the City Manager's role in the contextualization process; she should have been more open about it. Shaver, in fact, protected Regan. The entire contextualization process was centered on recommendations made by John Regan. Most called for Regan's removal.

After the meeting was adjourned, many stayed for further conversation, including Nancy Shaver. In spite of the obvious disagreements between the Mayor and those present a peaceful dialogue was maintained. The Tea Party did not beat on pails and chant as promised.

Cultural War Intensifying

A Cultural War is raging around us, increasing, almost daily, in intensity. At all levels of governance, City, County, State and Federal the respective politicians are throwing gasoline on the fire. We live in a time where reason, logic and common sense no longer have meaning. The attack is on the “Enlightenment” that gave birth to the modern western world. The exceptional vision of the “Shining City on the Hill, which President Reagan talked about in 1980, is being burnt to the ground in 2018. We are witnessing a “Postmodern” wave of cultural warfare based on emotions and feelings instead of rational reasoning.

In the wake of chaos the utopian concept of Communism will be borne according to “Marxist Mythology”. There are many politicians who claim they take no action because it’s what the demonstrators want. A war with only one side engaged will be lost. Disengagement does not lead to victory. Politician’s failures should be exposed.

According to a recent interview with St. Augustine Tea Party Chairman, Lance Thate, the chaos desired by the Communist left will not produce their worker uprising that Marx envisioned; not in America. In America, as it was in 1775, we have an armed population; a militia if you will. The Tea Party did an extensive social media investigation as it reviewed over 10,000 Facebook pages in its effort to obtain new Facebook friends.

The Tea Party singled out active military, veterans, NRA members and militia orientated groups such as the 3%. The Tea Party’s study revealed that this diverse group has some basic similarities. They are armed, they are proficient in the use of firearms, they are extremely patriotic, and they are Constitutionalists and most have a religious or spiritual nature.

These are the very people that the Communist left has designated as dangerous people when they pursue their gun control efforts. “It’s ironic that the left thinks he that these people are dangerous when there’s never been a mass shooting incident from patriotic Americans. The mass shooters universally come from the left,” Thate said.

Based on the number of friends, the Tea Party worked with and the average number of friends each friend had, the interconnected base is round 18 million people. People prepared to defend and protect the Constitution of the United States. Now, some will be too old to take to the streets should it become a shooting war. However, this is just one sample, the Tea Party disclosed. “Rest assured, there is an army out there and the ‘Patriotic Cultural Warriors’ will prevail. They all, without exception, support Donald J. Trump, President of the United States.” a Tea Party member said.

It's not the Police It's City Hall

In City after City, the Police are told to "Stand Down" and to let radicalized demonstrators run freely, screaming obscenities and disrupting civilized society. It ain't the policeman on duty, Folks. The police work for the local version of the "Deep State" and they just follow orders. As in Washington DC, the real power is the administrative staff. The focus of power being the hired City Managers and their collaborators, the bureaucratic governmental legal advisors, commonly called, City Attorneys.

The City Commissioners that the voters elect have one real talent, the ability to attract votes. The City Managers govern and the Commissioners capitulate. Pictured above are the City of St. Augustine's Commissioners handing out an award, their only real purpose given the current situation.

Never, do you hear an alarm sounded from City Hall that America's "Domestic Enemy" is at their City gates? No, the police are ordered to "Stand Down". The politicians excuse it by claiming to be on the side of "Safety First". The question is, "Safety for whom?"

In St. Augustine, Florida, the demonstrators are mostly white folks from other cities and they support "Black Privilege", the pay-back for by-gone days of racism. Street-wise cons go up against dumb ass Commissioners, who are willing to do the bidding of the City Manager, John Regan and his legal accomplice, City Attorney, Isabelle Lopez. The staff furthers the agenda of Marxist organizations like the Southern Poverty Law Center, the UN's agenda 2030 and the ACLU.

St. Augustine, like other cities, has a race-baiter who is actually a "Carpet Bagger" from Gainesville, the notorious Rev. Ron Rawls. He commutes daily to the "Oldest City" which is full of monuments and historic structures to destroy, as revealed in his racist rants on his selfie videos, which are published for his followers. This clown gets a free pass to disrupt public safety by "Disturbing the Peace" with a goal to "Insight to Riot". Not to worry, this is the new interpretation of Freedom of Speech. [According to Marxist, American Veterans in the Plaza area, but was successful in demolishing the historic Echo House which the black “Grandmothers of Lincolnton” desired to honor and preserve. The City Attorney sided with the race-baiter, Rawls, who called the black grandmothers, “Coonies”.

City Hall is firmly behind the Southern Poverty Law Center plan to remove over 40 Confederate Monuments in the State of Florida. City Hall freely hands out their literature at the Commissioners meetings. It’s like a district office for the Southern Poverty Law Center according to comments made by attendees of the Commissioner’s meetings.

If it wasn’t for the pushback of the local Tea Party and their Town Criers, the 3%ers, Saving Southern Heritage and Jill Pacetti’s petition which showed 11, 000 chose to “KEEP THE MONUMENTS”, things could have been different.

The City Manager, at the inception of Rawls’ attacks on the monuments, claimed he could have the monument down in one night. Capitulating to Rawls’ demands, Regan appeared to be willing to take down the Confederate War Memorial, which had been standing for about 150 years, without public discussion or approval. In a rare moment of courage, Mayor Nancy Shaver interrupted the City Manager’s plan giving the public time to respond. In many cities, this simply does not occur. Recently, Dave Heimbold, Former Chairman of the Tea Party, and presently Media Chairman of SATP, addressed the Commissioners meeting. Regarding his experience, Heimbold made the following comments:

“I went to the City Commissioners meeting on Monday, September 10, 2018. Before I was allowed to enter, I had to empty my pockets and get ‘wand-ed’ front and back. To make a public comment, I had to submit my name on a piece of paper, then wait my turn to speak for three minutes, all this while the police were diligently keeping the peace and protecting the Commissioners from disruption. I asked the question, Why do Commissioners get protection but public does not when the Rawls’ mob comes to St. Augustine? Rawls can interrupt concerts, scream at the top of the lungs in people’s faces, whip-up racial hatred, disrupt businesses on St. George Street and ‘Insight-to-Riot’ while the police ‘Stand Down’. Commissioners, when are you going to enforce the Law? I got my answer the next evening at the Tea Party meeting when, astonishingly, Mayor Shaver suggested that they will enforce the laws after the laws are changed. The laws are from the 60’s and no longer enforceable based on the City Attorney’s Progressive opinion. So rather than enforce the existing laws, which are still in effect, the Mayor thinks that we should change the laws to accommodate Ron Rawls’ abuse of the people and visitors to St. Augustine. This is the lack of “Common Sense” demonstrated by our leadership here in St. Augustine, Florida and across the Country.”

Wheels Fall Off Rawls' Wagon

On September 22, 2018, Ron Rawls and his cultist followers ranted and raged against 'White Privilege' in St Augustine, Florida on its historic St. George Street. They continued to demand the removal of Confederate Memorials in the historic district. Something that the Communist Occupiers from Jacksonville have been doing since the Charlottesville, Virginia riots about a year ago.

The "march" up St. George Street on Saturday was a flat tire event, at the taxpayer's expense. There were four visible Police bicyclists escorting the dozen Race-baiters who were all but lost in the crowd of out of town tourists. [Article 6 Militia who were covertly present report 7 to 10 demonstrators Ed]

St. George Street has been the scene of the Local Tea Party's Town Crier's protests extending back to early 2011 with hundreds of encounters with the public. The Town Criers have a history of carrying highly provocative "Politically Incorrect" signage on the street. Their activity has been met with public support and approval, with the tourists joining in the Tea Party's activity by participating in numerous photo ops. "What happened here today was the 'Cold Shoulder Treatment', a total rejection," David Heimbold, St Augustine Tea Party Chairman said. "Over the past seven years, the Communists have never been accepted by the people in the historic district. When the media lost interest a couple of months ago, Rawls' became a nonevent," Heimbold continued. The Tea Party reports that they had covert persons in the Bunnery.

These demonstrators made a nuisance of themselves when they stopped, on the way back, in front of the "Bunnery", a restaurant which gained notoriety with last year's Halloween "Aunt Jemima" flare up. Apparently, this is a holy site for the Rawls' Racists. They failed to obey the police orders to keep moving, but instead, as you can see from the pictures, stayed there ranting and raving about white privilege and taking down the Confederate monuments. All of this, mind you, with the SAPD taking no action. Ron Rawls could have been arrested two or three times for the past year's activity with the breaking of local ordinances concerning the "Disturbing of the Peace" and violating picketing ordinances, among others. But no, Rawls gets "Black Privilege" as he circumvents the law with the help of the City Manager, John Regan and the City Attorney, Isabelle Lopez. It's time to enforce the laws and stop this unnecessary expense for the taxpayers.
