New Year's Day Angels

Dear Ms. Lunelle,

On Tuesday morning, January 1, 2019, as I stood don in the uniform of the Southern soldier with the Southern Cross in hand, after about an hour contemplating on furling my flag because there were not many people on the road on this New Year's morning; when suddenly a car would park.

A middle aged couple with two teenagers and a young boy, who looked about nine or ten years old, came to where I stood, and asked if they could take a picture with me.

After about 5 or 6 pictures, they wished me Happy New Year, and turned jubilantly walking away. The baby boy turned quickly and ran back to me. He hugged me, and handed me a bag of Chips that was almost empty, and turned to his mom and asked her if he could have a dollar? He looked at his dad with his hands outstretched never saying a word.

Before his dad could respond, he turned to his brother and sister. And they in turn began rummaging through their pockets, each handing him a dollar. He collected his bounty from his parents, and handed it to me.

Please don't cry, he said to me. I didn't realize that I had teared up. My mom said that you were fighting for my great, great, great, great grandfather and the people of the South. I just hope this will help you to fight. All of a sudden, we were all crying.

As they pulled away, all waving from the car, the only thing I could think to say was.... "God bless you, Happy New Year !"

When I reached to put what I thought was about five one dollar bills into my bill folder that I could use in my gas tank; to my utter surprise there was among the dollars a one hundred dollar bill. More tears would form in my eyes. I had also been contemplating if I had some gas, instead of furling my flag and going home; I could carry my message further down the road.

I would head for home some four hour hours late; never to forget the Angels that I met on New Years morning 2019.

God bless you!

And here is wishing you and everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Your brother,

HK

Bolivian Author Warns Tea Party about Communist Infiltration

Photos by TCCR Staff

The St. Augustine Tea Party conducted its first open meeting of 2019 on January 8th. The Tea Party conducts open Speaker meetings on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month in the rear dining room of the Village Inn. The Village Inn is located at 900 Ponce de Leon Boulevard in St. Augustine, Florida.

This year's first featured speaker was Luis Wallpher. Mr. Wallpher was born in Bolivia and was active in Bolivian politics before coming to America. Luis Wallpher has written several books including "USA: Love it or leave it".

The first words out of Mr. Wallpher's mouth were a statement that he, "Loves America". The American principles of "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness" are an inspiration to the entire world. His message to the Tea Party was a warning. Wallpher sees similarities between the time before the Communists in Bolivia took over and our times in America today. He sees Communist infiltration here and urges resistance.

Mr. Wallpher expressed concern about the youth of America being indoctrinated with a culture that excludes the true American values. "There are no young people here", Wallpher said. The fact that young people are not being properly educated was the bottom line and the Tea Party members present were equally concerned. A lively discussion session followed. Most agreed that the next year or two are critical.

It's Not Just a Wall: It's the Principle, Stupid!

by John Knapp

FB Image

As the federal government eases into the fourth week of a so-called government 'shutdown' - which it isn't - over building a wall on our southwestern border to keep out roving hordes from South America, President Trump is patrolling the political red line separating common sense from suicidal insanity.

What are the chances Sioux Indian Chief Sitting Bull looked out over the smoking remains of Custer's Last Stand at Little Bighorn and muttered to himself, 'We should've built a wall.'

Migrations are a fact of life for every species, to get someplace where the grass is greener or the climate more agreeable. Or, in the case of humans, to get where life gets easier. But it's not America's fault that America is the Promised Land to so much of the rest of the world, to so many, so eager to get here.

The anti-wallers, apparently intent on deconstructing America as founded, ought to take a look back at the fate runaway immigration dealt the American Indian Nations. As unfortunate as that was for them, that was then. Things are all different now. Except that un-learned lessons from history are guaranteed to come around again.

Illegally entering another country across its porous border should be called what it is, breaking and entering, and a form of home invasion. When millions commit this illegal act, it overwhelms and forever changes the customs, values, traditions, mores, and politics of the targeted (host) country. Long-standing moral absolutes come under siege. To acquiesce in such an invasion, over time, leads to national suicide.

If only Sitting Bull could speak today on the subject of 'diversity', what diversity did for Native Americans! Perhaps the rabid anti-wallers - led by Nancy Pelosi and Chuck Schumer - would see the light?

Nah, with them, it's insane, suicidal, left-wing political poppycock above America's best interests, "Every Single Day". The democrats think they'll just pick up the pieces of their altered, de-constructed America later.

Just as front door locks don't always protect against a home invasion, neither will a wall on America's southwestern border keep out those most determined to get here. But 'The Wall' will go a very long way towards alleviating the problem of illegal entry into America.

No physical barrier is impervious to being breached. But a wall would make a grand statement to those looking to do a quick break-in on our country.

Our second line of defense would be to go back to the original line of defense: legal immigration only, no benefits for anyone here illegally, repatriating illegals back where they came from, no jobs for anyone here illegally, and no American citizenship granted to anyone without at least one American Citizen parent.

Citizenship is not conferred by the geography of one's birth, but by the citizenship of one's parents. It is a child's natural birthright, to automatically receive his Citizenship through the Citizenship of his parents. If your parents are Honduran citizens at the time of your birth, then you are a Honduran citizen, too, no matter if you were born in Andalusia, Alabama.

All of the above points are reasonable. The leftist anti-wall stance is un-principled, ignorant of history and common sense, and completely unreasonable. It's just as anti-America as to where most other leftist stances have deteriorated.

President Trump must outlast the anti-wallers, and keep the government 'shutdown' going, until Hell freezes over or the democrats publicly agree that America needs a barrier wall on its southwestern border, and then they vote to fund it.

Make the democrats eat it, President Trump. No executive actions, no caves to their side, no appropriating the funds from elsewhere. Make them say, 'Uncle!' Mr. President.

President Trump needs to tell the anti-Waller wailers, 'It's not just a wall; it's the Principle, Stupid!'

The Faces of Communists

FB Image

There was a time in America when the political party that was not in control, refer to themselves as “The Loyal Opposition”. The Democratic Party is not in control of the government as the White House and the Senate’s control is vested with the Republican Party.

The Democrats are clearly not “The Loyal Opposition”. The Democrat Party has permitted itself to become the wholly owned property of the Communist Party USA. The Communist Party’s agenda and the Democrat Party’s agenda are indistinguishable. Therefore, Senate Minority Leader, Chuck Schumer, and Speaker of the House, Nancy Pelosi, are the current leaders of the Communist Party in America by the default and high legislative offices they hold.

The problems of our dysfunctional government reside in the failure to adhere to the Constitution of the United States. Chuck Schumer and Nancy Pelosi have sworn to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. It is a Constitutional requirement to hold public office. Their communist agenda is in direct violation of the Constitution of the United States. Therefore, they need to be removed from office. In fact, there are many within the House of Representatives and the Senate of both parties that need to be removed. The concept of life, liberty and property, also known as the pursuit of happiness, are inconsistent with Communist philosophy. No Communist is eligible to be an officeholder at any level in America.

No doubt many would consider this extreme. But then again, that would only emphasize the division of our political system today from the dictates of the supreme law of our land. The Constitution was instituted to preserve those inalienable rights, so elegantly penned by Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence.

We have now reached a point where Americans must defend the essence of being an American, expressed in the Declaration of Independence.

ST. GEORGE STREET

January 26, 2019

Survey Says: “WALL Wins!”

Yes Patriots, “The Town Criers” are back on St. George Street in St. Augustine, Florida. This past Saturday, January 26, 2019, their “St George Street Poll” asked the tourists from all over the country, “Wall or No Wall?” The sign held by the Town Crier pollster, Dave Heimbold, needed no interpretation or explanation. As the crowd past by, at a rate of a hundred per minute, the pollster marked the vote, “Wall” or “No Wall”, as the political savvy tourists barked out their choice. The Trump Wall people polled 66% and the No Wall people 34%. In other words, this was a blow out for President Trump.

During the Presidential Campaign of 2016, the St. George Street Polls had Candidate Trump leading all leading candidates, both Republican and Democrat, from February 2016 right up to the November 8, 2016 election. That’s 100%. Unheard of! Couldn’t happen!

Surely, Bush or Cruz should have beaten Trump in the Primary, with Hillary winning in the General Election. But no! Trump just kept on WINNING! “God’s Man, for sure”, said Dave Heimbold. “Just amazing. It’s a damn shame that we can’t get honest polling from the big guys in media.”

Tea Party Ten Years and Counting

In the coming month, the Tea Party movement will observe its Tenth Anniversary. The modern day Tea Party began with a rant from Rick Santelli during a live broadcast from the floor of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The CNBC business news editor criticized the government's plan to refinance mortgages and called for a new Tea Party event such as occurred in Boston in 1773. A new Tea Party, if you will. The broadcast occurred on February 19, 2009.

FB Image

By tax day, April 15, 2009, the birth of the populist Tea Party movement had gathered strength. There were rallies across the country. The Christian Science Monitor, at the time, reported rallies in 750 cities with an estimated half a million people attending.

The Tea Party's massive populist appeal and their ability to attract millions, almost immediately became the focus of Republican Party operatives. The populist movement generated enthusiasm that the Republicans have never been able to create. And so it was with the grassroots group in St. Augustine, known as "Just Patriots", which later, became the St. Augustine Tea Party (SATP).

The exact number of Tea Party groups that formed in Florida back then is unknown for sure, but estimated to be a few hundred. What is known is that 83 Tea Parties formed a network in 2010. Republican operatives took control of The SATP in August 2010 and later the Tea Party Network, as well.

Tea Parties were used for the express purpose of electing Republicans. And for a while that seemed to be a solution to stopping the Progressive Communist agenda. The Tea Party people were a little naïve. But it is now clear that Republican leaders are about "Big Government" and have little concern for the Constitution. The Tea Parties, on the other hand, are about small government, free enterprise, capitalism and adherence to the Constitution. So, there is a problem, a big problem.

By 2011, members of the SATP understood that there was more to the movement than electing Republicans. This Tea Party divorced themselves from the Republican control. To our knowledge, they are one of the few Tea Parties to accomplish this and still remain viable. Republican dirty tricks operatives did their best to destroy the SATP. It wasn't until the SATP took them to court, several years later, that the matter was laid to rest.

During the 2012 election campaign, GOP State Committeeman and Committeewomen met in Tallahassee to deal with the subject of "Control or Destroy Tea Party" groups. Republicans did not like Tea Party candidates. They tended to come from outside the party structure. They also were inclined to be less controllable. The neoconservatives of the Republican Party have been relatively successful. Today there are only a handful of Tea Parties that are active and functioning in Florida. Florida's experience is reflected across the whole Country.

While the Republican leadership was successful in taking the Tea Party out of the conversation on mainstream media, including Fox News, they have not been successful in removing the memory of the Tea Party from the people. They experience the affection of the people when the Town Criers make appearances on St. George Street. People are energized by the Tea Party presence. And the Republicans got something they didn't expect in 2016. The GOP thought they were getting rid of the Tea Party, but what they got was Donald J. Trump.

The legacy of the Tea Party movement today is the Republican "Freedom Caucus" and the 45th President of the United States. If you are familiar with the Tea Party rallies of old and you attend a Trump rally today you will see some similarities.

On October 24, 2015, then candidate, Donald Trump came to Florida campaigning for the first time. He held a rally at "The Landing" in Jacksonville, Florida. The event was organized by Billie Tucker, the former Chairman of the First Coast Tea Party. The Landing had been the site of numerous Tea Party rallies.

What was missing from the largely Tea Party crowd that was in attendance, was their original signs and their flags. All vestiges of the Tea Party were wiped away by a prohibition of any original signs or flags by the Trump organization. Members of this Tea Party were denied entrance with their 10 full-size Gadsden flags. To paper over the Tea Party movement with the Silent Majority, had to be the creation of a Republican operative. No one else could be so out of touch with the reality of the American people. Prior to Trump's appearance, an MC tantalized the audience with some of the early Tea Party rhetoric and music, songs that were written exclusively for Tea Party rallies.

Well folks, "Trump Rallies" still reflect the Tea Party rallies minus the flags and the signs. The Tea Party never had a leader in its beginning, but it does now. The Tea Party was a pain in the butt to the Republican establishment. And it still is, in the person of Donald Trump.

It is ironic that the Republican Party leadership does not support their President. It disturbing that Trump Clubs are reluctant to engage the public by showing support for 45 in the streets. There must be millions of MAGA hats in circulation. But, you never see them among the public. They are reserved for political meetings of like-minded people. The Main Stream Media has convinced people not to wear them. People who are fearful about wearing MAGA hats in public today, will be terrified in the future if the Cultural War continues to be inflicted by the Progressive Communists, resulting in their taking permanent power.

The SATP and its action committee, the Town Criers, have been engaging in the “Cultural War” since the very beginning of the Town Crier existence. The SATP has understood the nature of the Cultural War and has engaged it at every opportunity. They have also resisted attacks by members of the Occupiers, Black Lives Matter, Antifa and the New Black Panther Party on our streets in the historic district of St. Augustine.

Revisionary history is occurring across the land, encouraged by institutions of higher learning and our public school system. The attack on Confederate monuments is a prelude to an attack on monuments dedicated to our “Founding Fathers”. We live in an era where everything is political.

The SATP reports that it is fortunate to have the historic district in their locale. It gives the Town Criers a forum to present ideas, but more importantly, to observe the public’s reaction. One of their activities is the conducting of polls. The “St. George Street Poll” is a random selection, face-to-face poll. The SATP has been conducting polls since 2012.

They have had some interesting perspectives to present. In January 2012, they predicted, based on the public’s reaction, that Mitt Romney would be the Republican nominee and that he would fail in the general election. In February 2016 they predicted that Donald J Trump would be President of the United States, and it didn’t matter whether the Republicans nominated him or not.

The St. George Street pollsters do not claim that their polls are scientific. But they do claim that they are honest and direct. There is something about the demographics on St. George Street which permits them to forecast political outcomes. True to their tradition, the Town Criers conducted a poll this past Saturday. The question was simple enough, “Wall or No Wall?” By a margin of 2 to 1 the public demanded the wall be built.

When asked about the future of the Tea Party, Lance Thate, SATP Chairman had this to say;

“There is an evil across the land and it is defined by the Progressive Communists. As Town Criers of old, it is our duty to alert and awaken the Country. The “Cultural War” is real and deadly. This war must be won. We are close to living in a police state. The proof was shown by the FBI terror tactics against Roger Stone. The message was that we should all stand down. Well, we’re not going to stand down and it will be the Tea Party’s function to show the way, as it did in 2010. A young high school student wearing a MAGA hat and standing his ground against a “Communist Operative” should give us all the direction we need to act. It is time to put on the red MAGA hats and stand with our President. The Cultural War is designed to separate us from our heritage. A people without a history are the people with no identity. People without identity don’t fight. The Tea Party’s role is to expose the Communist lies as they occur and to wear the MAGA hat in defiance. ”
